Re: Beba For First Dog

Dear Mr. & Mrs. Obama:

Congratulations on a wonderfully run and successful campaign!

Although residents of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico do not vote in the general election, you and your family have countless supporters here on the island. Your story has given hope to many who had none before, including one of Puerto Rico's very own "satos" named "Beba."

Beba is Puerto Rico's candidate for First Dog.

Amigos de los Animales—a nonprofit organization dedicated to animal welfare here in Puerto Rico—rescued Beba about a week ago. Before her rescue, Beba was one of Puerto Rico's over 200,000 "satos" or mixed-breeds roaming the island uncared for. Luckily, the cute little three-month old Chihuahua-mix puppy is now receiving the kind of veterinary care that all dogs should be entitled to.

All that's left is to find her a home.

If you haven't already found a loving pet, we hope that you'll share the enclosed photos with your daughters and consider making Beba—who fits all the First Family criteria—a part of your family.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth K. Kracht,
Acting President
Amigos de los Animales, Inc.
